The newsletter of the Yuba River Charter School

"Receive the children in reverence, educate them in love, send them forth in freedom." - Rudolf Steiner

December 7th, 2011

Letter from the Director

When the first group of Waldorf teachers were being trained, Rudolf Steiner told them to always look to the human being to connect the children with the curriculum. In the third grade math block you will see how Mrs. Reuther has measured all the students' feet and has paper strips hanging in order of length. Mr. Bell in fifth grade is telling the students how the ancient Egyptians believed that the Nile was created by the arm of Ra which came down from the heavens to make the river and his fingers created the Delta. Meanwhile in grade eight, Mrs. Dunning is teaching anatomy and asked students to examine their desk partner's skin to see the diversity on the epidermis.

While we all rush into the Winter break, please be sure to look at the calendar every day for important events. Tomorrow, Thursday, is our Winter Assembly at the Vet's Hall. Children should arrive at 5:45, assembly starts at 6pm and will be over in about an hour. Friday morning we are having our morning assembly for the virtue of "grace." Next Wednesday at 9am the fourth through eighth grades are performing a strings concert in the auditorium. In the evenings, many of our parents are supporting the Victorian Christmas in the alpha building on Broad Street on Wednesdays and Sundays. Stop by and let's bring children's activities back to the historic local event. If you have not purchased your memory book, please fill out your order form this week.

I would sincerely like to thank all of our families that worked on the Moondance auction and on the Winter Fair. Although our annual fund drive does not begin for several months, if you would like to make a contribution in this tax year, donations made payable to the YRCS Educational Foundation may be brought to the office.

I hope all of you have a wonderful and celebratory holiday. Hopefully we will have some snow to shovel off of the front steps when we all return.

Sincerely,
Caleb Buckley
YRCS Director

~GRACE~

Grade 5 is hosting this month's virtue.

Grace is our connection to the spiritual. It is a sense that we are loved and provided for in all circumstances. It is opening ourselves to bounty. Grace inspires us to give unconditional love to others. When we are gracious and elegant, others are drawn to our company. With grace, we can turn every communication and relationship into a thing of beauty. We grow in grace when we treat others with dignity, kindness and exquisite courtesy, and whenever we forgive. As we connect deeply with grace, we become the presence of grace to others.

People exhibiting grace think, move, and speak with gentleness and courtesy.

Adapted from the Virtues Project

"Everybody can be great. Because anybody can serve. You don't have to have a college degree to serve. You don't have to make your subject and your verb agree to serve.... You don't have to know the second theory of thermodynamics in physics to serve. You only need a heart full of grace. A soul generated by love."

Martin Luther King, Jr.

"I seek constantly to improve my manners and graces, for they are the sugar to which all are attracted."

Og Mandino

"Virtue and genuine graces in themselves speak what no words can utter."

William Shakespeare

"In health the flesh is graced, the holy enters the world."

Wendell Berry

I am thankful for the gift of Grace. It sustains my life...

YRCS Winter Assembly – Thursday, December 8, 2011

6:00 PM – 7:30 PM

Dear YRCS Parents,

We are excited about the upcoming Winter Assembly, which will be held Thursday, 12/8/11, at 6 PM in the Grass Valley Veterans Hall (255 South Auburn Street). In order to have a positive experience and ensure our school stays in good standing for future facility rentals, we ask that the following guidelines be respected:

1. Please feed your family ahead of time – NO FOOD ALLOWED AT ASSEMBLY.
2. If you have a student performing, please arrive 15 minutes early with your child dressed for the performance (5:45 PM).
3. Please keep watch of your children who are not performing. Children running around or talking loudly can be distracting to those in attendance, and is disrespectful to our talented performers.
4. Please review with your child (including performers) proper behavior for a musical performance. This is our chance to model for our children respect and reverence toward the performers.
5. To the extent possible, we ask that families stay for the entire performance and take in the talents of all the grades! If that is not possible, please use discretion in exiting so that performances are not disrupted, and choose seating that facilitates this (to the rear or sides of the hall).

Remember, we are GUESTS at the hall, and we have responsibilities to keep.

Also, performing students and teachers/instructors will be allowed into the performing hall first. After all the performing students are sitting in their assigned area, parents, siblings and other visitors will be allowed into the performing hall.

We look forward to a wonderful assembly and thank you for your cooperation

Sincerely,
YRCS Staff & Volunteers

Moondance fundraising totals are in!

Thanks to the collaborative efforts of our entire community the YRCS Educational Foundation grossed over $36,351 for our school and Waldorf education! The net profit, which will directly affect this year's operational budget and teacher's health saving benefits is just over $26,000.

This year's class project efforts were absolutely the SHINING STARS of Moondance. The money raised from our parent and student efforts was $7,381, which is over 20% of the gross earning for Moondance. Thank you Rebecca Bleau for holding and guiding the Class Projects and for each Moondance Class Representative!

And extra huge and honorable mention needs to be given to Gary Upton!

Gary is 2nd grader Maya Upton's most-talented, wood-artisan father. Thank you Gary for your commitment the Moondance 2nd grade class project, and for going "above & beyond" in creating the gorgeous "Koy at the Forest" wooden table, which was a near-superhuman feat! Gary designed and created the table using over 9,000-plus pieces of hand-cut, inlaid, rare & unique woods. He put over 200 hours of his own personal time and love and finances into this project, too. The project was partially inspired by a Japanese fable, which Gary brought to the 2nd grade class at the "unveiling" of the magnificent piece of art that all twenty-nine 2nd graders participated in co-creating. The table earned YRCS $3,500! For more information on this project go to: <http://www.theunion.com/article/2011119/ENTERTAINMENT/11119725&parentprofile=search>

Congratulations to us all! Our community is truly amazing!

Tree Power

By Jennifer Scott-Lifland

People crack up when I say that I am an L.A.-trained arborist.

“Los Angeles doesn’t have trees!” They tell me. And I then just want to hit them with a twig. I can assure you, there are trees in L.A., and I miss being there to see them.

In 1997, my neighbors and I planted 38 Golden Medallion (Cassia leptophylla) trees in our West Adams neighborhood-mid way between the La Brea Tar Pits and University of Southern California. I had moved to Nevada County in 2008, but when I go back I always visit those trees.

I remember once that Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa came out to do tree care with us on his first day in office – July 2005. The breaking news that day was “Mayor learns to prune”. He also helped replace a struggling tree with a healthier specimen. This tree he publicly names “Suenos” or Dreams.

From the start, planting those trees brought our Fifth Avenue neighbors together. Families from one end of our two-block area got reacquainted on planting day.

“We thought you had moved away...” “Well yes we did, but we wanted to see the trees again.” “We’re still here.” Those trees reconnected us all. Like the poles holding up the phone wires, these spindly trees restored and inspired communication amongst us. House by house. Family by family.

I remember during our first organizing meeting with 18 neighbors and some staff from TreePeople (where I worked), a neighbor named LeRoy spoke up. “I can’t make the planting, but can I bring my Gospel Band to perform that afternoon?” That’s West Adams at its best, baby!

Mrs. Archie baked her famous lemon cake on the big day. Lainie, our glamorous neighbor, came out and sang with LeRoy’s band.

We called ourselves the Fifth Avenue Beautification Committee after our fabulous tree-planting/Gospel singing/weenie roast success.

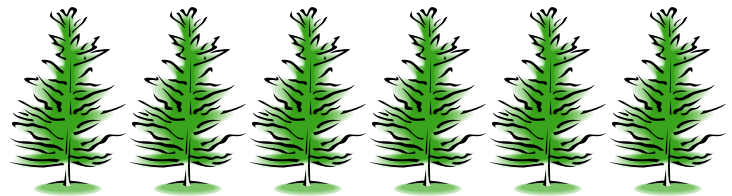

Ten years later, in 2007, our trees now stronger, fuller...a young neighbor, Jamiel, was shot and died under the Gold Medallion tree named “Sueno,” two houses and two trees away from his front door.

This tree was lovingly strung with balloons, wind chimes, photos of Jamiel. It became the site of a bronze plaque from the City to mark the young life stolen. Does this tree bloom longer? Stand taller? What dreams does Sueno hold? I wonder.

Many of the wonderful people who made that day so special have pass on now too. Mrs. Archie, LeRoy...and I wonder about Bertram, whose door I knocked on first...who said, without a moment’s hesitation: “Well, sure, I’ll be in your tree army...”

I have learned a lot from trees, I have learned that trees to better when planted in groups, weathering weather, pests and infestations – better than when planted solo and standing alone.

Seems like people do better together, too. Trees helped me see this. Some kind of magic.

Jen's Tree Power essay first appeared in The Western Arborist magazine, Fall 2011. It is reprinted here with permission of the author, Jennifer Scott-Lifland.

"Teacher Jen", as many here at YRCS know her, is the Arts and Crafts teacher in Kidspace, YRCS' after-care program. Jen is also a Certified Arborist, who worked at TreePeople, an L.A.-based environmental-healing organization, for 10 years. She specialized in stressed-out city trees (--lots of those!)

She has a BA in English from Stanford University and a Masters in Screenwriting from U.S.C. Her son, Noah, is in 6th grade and daughter, Lucia, is in 5th.

Jen's favorite tree on campus is the four-leader Spruce near the windows of 4th and 5th grade. (--a leader is the tip-top of a tree--where you'd place the star on a Christmas tree--4 leaders visible from the playground!) Check it out...
